SECTION ONE

Welcome

“We are ready to take the next step, together, with those in this room.”

The 2026 Season

Welcome to the 2026 Menlo Men's Soccer team. We are glad to have you as part of this season's journey.

In the pages that follow you will find what you need to understand how our program works, how to thrive within it, and what is expected of you. All of it rests on a single foundation: work hard every day to become the best version of yourself, put the team first, bring positive energy to everything you do, and never give up.

Our expectations and standards are high. The program intends to make a real impact and to challenge for a conference championship in our first year in the NCAA Division II California Collegiate Athletic Association.

You are joining a program rich in history — perhaps never more so than over the last ten years: three conference championships and three trips to the national tournament. But we are never satisfied. We are ready to take the next step, together, with those in this room.

THE STANDARD

We are never satisfied.

SECTION TWO

History

“Hundreds of young men have come before you to set the foundation for what lies ahead.”

Playing for the M

1961 FOUNDED	28 YEARS UNDER LOPEZ	209–121–28 LOPEZ RECORD	3 CHAMPIONSHIPS
-----------------	-------------------------	----------------------------	--------------------

The program started in the spring of 1961, led by the legendary Carlos “Senior” Lopez. Lopez guided the Oaks for 28 years to a record of 209-121-28.

Since 2016 the Oaks have consistently competed for titles in the Golden State Athletic Conference: three conference finals, three championships, and three berths into the national championship, advancing to the second round in 2023.

In 2024 we began the Division II era and finished second in our inaugural season in the PacWest Conference. We now find ourselves in a similar situation, competing in the CCAA for the first time.

Hundreds of young men have come before you in this program to help set the foundation for what lies ahead of us. We talk about playing for the “M” as a way of honoring those who brought joy to the Menlo community over the years playing the beautiful game.

CARLOS “SENIOR” LÓPEZ
FOUNDING HEAD COACH · 1961

“It should be a great honor to be part of this group — and a true obligation to give everything you have for this program.”

MICHAEL WEBER 2019–2021

Alumni Reflections

“I was there at the beginning, and I am thrilled with the progress of the program!”

KARL BUDER
1961–1965

RYAN ONIZUKA
2013–2016

When I accepted a place at Menlo College in 2013, my intention was to keep playing at a competitive level and to be the best I could be. I never went in thinking it would become one of the most valuable decisions of my young life.

Playing soccer in college is a privilege, no matter the level. It takes dedication, hard work on and off the field, and love. You have to love the good times and the bad. The good times are easy. The bad times are when your true character shows. Are you willing to learn and get better, or just give up? Are you willing to put in the extra effort and sacrifice to accomplish the reason you wanted to play college soccer in the first place?

The most valuable thing I learned is that this is an entire team effort across a whole season. Success doesn't come from a few — it comes from everyone. These years will be memorable, so make the most of them. Work hard and have fun. Play with joy.

FAVORITE QUOTE

“It's not the size of the dog in the fight, it's the size of the fight in the dog.”

MICHAEL WEBER

2019–2021

Oaks, as you can read and feel, many great personalities and players have come before you and many will come after. It should be a great honor to be part of this group, and you all have a true obligation to give everything you have for this program.

Make the most out of your time at Menlo. Believe me when I tell you this program has the potential to be recognized nationally. I am not talking about winning some games and becoming conference champions — we have been there. Go bigger and push the boundaries. That is the mentality of Menlo.

ISAK EMIL RØSBØ HAUKEFÆR

2022–2026

Playing for Menlo College taught me that growth comes from the people around you as much as the game itself. The experience challenged my character, deepened my resilience, and showed me the value of being part of something bigger than myself. Once you have put on the shirt, it becomes a part of you forever.

ERICK RAFAEL CASTRO JIMÉNEZ

2022-2026

I arrived at Menlo without knowing it would become my second home. The coaches shaped my mindset, instilling in me the drive to keep improving every day — attention to detail matters. The people in charge built a winning team both on and off the field, as well as future professionals.

Menlo College shaped my character, habits, and mindset, but above all, my personal growth. Joining this team is like joining a family. Friends and coaches who support each other, and a team that always displays elegance on the field. Today and always: Go Oaks!

OLIVER MAYER

2022-2026

Playing for Menlo was always special to me. It wasn't just a team, it was a family. Putting out there everything you got for them but also the coaching staff was a privilege!

I would tell the players that you should never take it for granted to play for Menlo and enjoy every single moment — practice, home games, the trips. Unforgettable. Work hard every day, because winning and celebrating with the team is the best feeling ever!

Closing the Circle

JASON SMITH

VOLUNTEER ASSISTANT COACH

My five years serving as a volunteer assistant for the men's soccer program were the most enjoyable five years coaching I ever had. Menlo is more than just a soccer team, it's a family. Being able to bring 30 men from all around the world with different cultures and backgrounds together to fight towards a common goal is a remarkable journey.

Every season, the journey was always more important than the destination, so my advice to every Oak is enjoy every day, walk in the building to get 1% better every day. Push yourself to the limits and make unforgettable bonds. There will be highs and lows throughout the journey, so encourage your teammates and trust the process.

The freshman sitting in the locker room has just as important a role to play as the senior starter in the room — don't underestimate your importance to the team's success, whether you're on the field or off it. Finally, trust your coaches. You have the best coaching staff and support team out there.

When you walk in the building as a student-athlete and you put the effort in day in day out, I promise you that you will leave an Oak — that is something I didn't realise until I left. Go Oaks.

FROM THE STAFF

You will leave an Oak.

SECTION THREE

Values, Vision, Mission

“When the roots are deep, there is no need to fear the wind.”

AFRICAN PROVERB

THE ROOTS

Eight Values

Selfless

No person is bigger than the team. All actions are for the team.

Positivity

We are constantly on the cusp of greatness in all aspects of life.

Relentless

The outcome does not determine our effort. Our effort is on the process.

Self-Discipline

You are responsible for you. Your teammates will help.

Gratitude

Recognize the many things you can be grateful for.

Joy

Find happiness in the process and the people around you.

Humility

Proud but not arrogant. There is still much to accomplish.

Respect

Respect self and others at all times, in language and in action.

VISION

Lifting trophies with future leaders of industry.

SECTION FOUR

Training Protocol and Standards

“Practice is a privilege.”

The Standard

You get to play every day with great teammates, on a good field, with coaches who care about you. We will not waste that by being unprepared, lazy, or distracted. Focused work each day is how we are ready for each match. Any player not meeting this standard will be asked to leave practice for the day.

01 Bring energy. Be a good teammate and work hard.

02 Live the values on the field.

03 Be present. Mentally and physically dialed in — competitive focus.

04 Wear current Menlo issued gear.

05 Fulfill team responsibilities.

06 No phones to the field. Coming from or going to class — buried in the bag.

Off the Field

We train and prepare in other ways too, and we bookend these to training time. If class prevents you from attending, you make it up on your own with the managing staff member — a missed lift means connecting with the sports performance coaches.

SECTION FIVE

Game Day Protocol and Standards

“Whether you play a full 90 or no minutes, we all have a share in the result.”

Game Day Standards

Game day should be exciting for the entire team. Give to the team with your energy and effort in whatever way possible.

BE ON TIME

Every timing below is a deadline, not a target.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR BODY

Appropriate meals, rolling, stretching and activation.

NON-DRESSING PLAYERS

Redshirt, injured, non-rostered or ineligible: practice shorts or pants, collared shirt, running shoes. No hats. Help with warm-up and give energy to the group. Rehab or fitness is done before the team meets.

HELP WITH STATS

Everyone contributes to the matchday operation.

WIN THE BENCH

The bench is a position. Play it well.

OUTSIDE CONTACT STOPS

Social media, messaging and outside contact stop at 60 minutes to kick-off. Phones stay in the locker room, for music only.

EXCEPTIONS

Personal or family emergency · coming from or going to class · sick.

NOT EXCEPTIONS

SECTION SIX

Other Responsibilities

Beyond soccer and academics there are other responsibilities of a member of this team. As everywhere else, each player participates, works to the best of their ability, and brings a positive attitude.

Academic Excellence

Be an active member of the classroom and contribute to the quality of each class. Take part in extra-curricular academic experiences: global and Silicon Valley immersion, academic challenges and competitions.

Fundraising

Adopt an Athlete · Landmark game services · camps and clinics.

Community Engagement

Twenty SERV hours per student. Holiday gift drive and community events.

Recruiting

Willingness to help host and entertain prospective recruits.

Campus Support

Support other sports teams and campus initiatives.

EVERY PLAYER

Twenty SERV hours.

SECTION SEVEN

Communication Standards

Communication is at the heart of everything we do as a team, on and off the field. Clear, direct, honest communication — received with active listening — will be a strength of ours.

The minute something is wrong

SOCCER ACTIVITIES

Call Coach Lambert or Coach Tudor. If we don't answer, text us.

SPORTS PERFORMANCE

SPORTS MEDICINE

If treatment affects your schedule, communicate with Sports Medicine and the coaching staff as soon as possible. Medical clearance and return-to-play decisions are made by Sports Medicine; once cleared, coaches determine participation based on readiness, performance and team needs.

NON-NEGOTIABLE

Repeated unexcused absences or failure to communicate may result in team discipline, up to and including removal from the team, consistent with College policy.

SECTION EIGHT

Your Support Team

Coaches & Staff

Athletic trainers, sports information, sports performance, game operations, Sodexo, athletic and school administrators. All here to make your experience better. Say hello. Learn their names. Ask if they need help.

Captains and Leadership Ambassadors

The connection between players and staff. Your representatives.

Training Room

Professionalism · respect · punctuality · follow through.

Everyone Else

Professors · Sodexo · hotel staff · bus drivers · opponents' trainers. The standard does not change by audience.

THREE THINGS, EVERY DAY

Say hello. Learn their names. Ask if they need help.

09

SECTION NINE

Team Roles

“You either help or hurt the culture. There is no neutral.”

Roles in the Program

Understanding your role is vital to the team and to your own development. All roles matter to a championship team, and your role may shift with the day and the time of the season.

EVERYONE, ALL THE TIME • NON-NEGOTIABLE

Culture Keepers

This is everyone's responsibility — you either help or hurt the culture, there is no neutral. A stagnant culture is a dying culture. Keeping ours requires active participation toward the vision, living the values, and an active relationship with your teammates.

EXPERIENCED & OLDER MEMBERS

Leadership Ambassadors

A direct line of communication between team and staff. These players embody our values and have proven themselves over time — not perfect, but consistent.

Captains

Leaders on the field, in the locker room, and in the community. Work harder than anyone to push the team forward.

Veterans

Most responsible for teaching younger players how this program behaves. First to help and take responsibility. Sweep the shed.

NEW TO THE PROGRAM

Rookies

Fall in line, embrace the values, work with and respect the veterans, leadership group and captains. First to listen, last to speak.

Roles on the Field

First Group

Players who demonstrate skill and fitness, embody the values, and prove week in and week out that they help us win.

Game Changers

Rotation players fighting to be in the first group, typically traveling or in the travel rotation. When subbed in, change the game — with energy, effort, or a tactical adjustment.

Developmental & Redshirt

Players who are patiently greedy: bought into the present, focused on contributing in future years. Extra work in the weight room through the fall, selling out on the scout team, finding reps before and after practice, learning from older players. These players do not dress on game days.

Injured Players

Working as hard as those training so they can get back on the field: time in the training room, rehab sessions, on the field at practice to watch and learn, helping shag balls. These players do not dress on game days.

WHATEVER THE ROLE

All roles are important to a championship team.

SECTION TEN

Sweep the Shed

Extreme ownership. In the end we are responsible — be ready to step up and help at all times.

Field & Balls

See the coaching staff before practice for what is needed: moving goals, setting up mannequins, putting LAX goals away. Count balls before every practice, report the number, and collect them after.

Jersey Crew

Wash, dry and return laundry each day to each player's locker. Wash, fold and store jerseys, then bring them out and distribute on game day. Jerseys are washed the day of the game or the following morning.

Travel & Gear

All things on the road: ice chest, snack box, balls, jerseys. Help with food set-up at home games. Bring the bibs out each day.

Maintenance

All facilities. Last to leave the locker room each day to make sure it is clean; vacuum daily. Daily sweeps of the field, weekly sweeps of the shed.

“Many hands make light work.”

JOHN HEYWOOD

Team responsibilities are meant to build teamwork, leadership and shared ownership of the program, and remain reasonable and consistent with College expectations. Repeated or serious violations of team standards may result in team discipline, including suspension or removal from the team, consistent with Athletics Department and College policies.

Discipline

A hallmark of any championship program is discipline and accountability to program rules and standards. Good self-discipline, one of our values, is how we avoid punitive discipline.

Being a part of this team is a privilege.
There will be mistakes and we will learn.
There will be consequences for these mistakes.
Too many mistakes and the privilege ends.

REMOVAL FROM PRACTICE

Being late · poor attitude · checking your phone at practice · inappropriate or disrespectful language.

THE WHEEL

Spin it and see your fate. Reasons to spin: not living out team values · not meeting game or practice standards · not fulfilling team responsibilities · losing equipment, team or personal · missing class · behavior not in line with our values.

SUSPENSION

May occur for repeated or serious violations of team standards, consistent with Athletics Department and College policies.

CONDUCT VIOLATIONS

Vulgar, racist, homophobic, or any other language or behavior intended to demean a teammate, opponent, official, or member of the Menlo community is not a practice-standards issue. It is a conduct issue. It is handled through the Athletics Department and the College's student conduct process rather than through team discipline, and may result in suspension or removal from the team, consistent with College policy.

REMOVAL FROM THE TEAM

Should you no longer embody what this program stands for — see Section 3 — you will be removed from the team, as a last resort.

This is Respect. It is the one value with no discretionary range.

SECTION TWELVE

Go to Class

Your academic journey is critical to our team's success, and we are here to support you. Early communication is key with any academic concern. Class is mandatory. If you are unable to attend class, communicate with your professor and let the coaching staff know as soon as possible.

SECTION THIRTEEN

Football Vision — Who We Are

“There is only the next action.”

OUR WHY

Why We Compete

We compete at the highest level to bring joy to Menlo College and our collective communities — including those who came before you in this program, and yourself. Great regular seasons and deep playoff runs are how we get there.

How We Play

When we play we express our values in each moment of the game. At all times we work to be in control and hold the pragmatic view that our actions help us win or lose.

We emphasize defensive discipline and place a high value on players who take pride in the defensive moments of the game.

Transition opportunities are what make us special. To do that we must be of the highest fitness level and live a lifestyle that lets us always be the fitter team.

In the attack our quality provides inspiration, excitement and joy. No positive or negative action is dwelled upon — there is only the next action.

THE LOCKED SENTENCE

We value territory over possession, chances over patterns, pressure over patience, and goals over aesthetics.

Everything we do on the field is filtered through it.

Values on the Field

Selfless Behavior

Running for the team. Out-run our opponent.

Positive Mindset

Excellence as the norm. What's next? Every action can change the game in our favor.

Relentless Effort

The only way to win in the college game. For the program.

Self-Discipline

Defending as a priority. On and off the field.

Gratitude

For this opportunity. For teammates, trainers and staff.

IN EVERY MOMENT

Out-run our opponent.

Joy

In our play on both sides of the ball. In bringing the Menlo community joy through our style of play.

Humility

We all have personal successes. In reality there are many players with equal or greater success. Have confidence, but understand you have achieved little. As a team and a program we still have much to prove.

Respect

No reckless challenges in training. Serious or repeated unsafe behavior may result in team discipline, including removal from the team, consistent with College policy. We take care of each other. Referees, opponents and staff get the same standard as teammates, no exceptions, no matter the call. Assume your teammate is trying: mistakes get the benefit of the doubt, every time.

PROGRAM LANGUAGE

“We defend the moment we lose it. Mistakes get the benefit of the doubt, every time.”

Defending

LANGUAGE OF THE GAME · 1 OF 3

Casting shadow — body positioning that takes away passing options. The closer you are to the ball, the larger your shadow.

2-for-1 defending — taking a position that allows you to defend two players at once.

Neutral position — ball central with the opponent in their defensive half, and we are preparing to win it back.

Snapping — going to win the ball when the opponent reaches a pressure pocket. Quick and explosive.

Sealing to one side — keeping the ball to one side; make the field narrow, deny the sideways ball.

Pressure pocket — the location we are trying to force the ball into, depending on the defensive scheme.

Backfill — the interchange of positioning with teammates when defending.

Tucking in — weak-side player coming closer to the rest of the team.

Stepping — moving higher up the field.

Close lines — stepping our lines to stay compact vertically.

Closing — applying pressure to the opposition.

Dropping — coming closer to our own goal, collectively.

Squeeze — coming closer together to deny central penetration.

Pressing — the team concept: we defend all the way to the opponent's end line.

Tackling — winning the ball.

1v1 defending — arm across, attach at the hip, step across or into the opponent.

Transition

Proactive defending — anticipating defensive transition while still in the attack.

Rest defense — the off-ball structure we hold while attacking, so we can defend the moment we lose the ball.

Repress — immediate pressure on the ball after losing it, taken when numbers around the ball favor us. When they don't, we Sink and Squeeze.

Stretch — players who run forward immediately in an attacking transition.

Ending — tactical foul to kill play in a defensive transition moment.

Sink and Squeeze — the team-wide response when the press is broken: the back line sinks for depth, the team

In Possession

LANGUAGE OF THE GAME · 2 OF 3

Invade — the conversion of territory into chances.

Running through — hips facing forward, running through the opposition's lines.

Back shoulder — positioning off the ball on a defender's back shoulder so they cannot track you and the ball at once.

Getting deep — working the ball to the end line to pin the opponent back.

Set-up shape — in the final third, a shape that lets us attack and repress.

Pin — positional idea that keeps the opponent locked into their defensive third.

Drop in — the #6 drops between the CBs to form a back three, pushing both outside backs higher.

Drop out — the #6 drops alongside one CB to form an asymmetric three, freeing that outside back higher.

Zone 19 — the central square around the center circle, on the tactics board grid. A turnover here becomes a counter against a shape that hasn't set.

Stay and play — when we have a numerical advantage in wide areas, we stay and solve the overload where the ball is.

In pockets — positioning between lines so the opponent must decide who is responsible for you.

Counter switch — playing back into the same space.

Interchange — changing positions with a teammate.

Playing the channel — the ball into the space between the touch line and the 18, over the back line.

Half space — the space between the vertical lines of the defensive organization — between OB and CB in a back four.

Interior passes — a pass inside.

Filling the box — near-post flashing run, centre of the goal mouth, framing it. The codified version of this instinct is the Arrival.

Hook it — ball into the space players are running onto.

Bounce — a pass back.

Set — setting the ball for a player to run onto.

Negative ball — a pass backward that summons the next attack — not a retreat.

The Attacking Spine

LANGUAGE OF THE GAME · 3 OF 3

Four beats forward, and a breath that returns. Reload is not the fifth — it is available from any beat, in possession only.

Seek	Orientation before anything happens. Eyes up the field before the ball arrives.
Spring	The run that unlocks a shape. Rarely solo — a system of runners, bounded by the rest defense.
Release	Moving the ball intentionally to serve our identity: the pass, the carry, the dribble. No flicks, no low-percentage tricks.
Finish	Two ways in: the Knife and the Arrival.
The Knife	The thrust. Can we cut through them clean and score right now?
The Arrival	The wave — the hunting party arriving in layers: on time, blind side, double movements. Arrival over brilliance.
Reload	The return arc, in possession only. The breath before the next attack. Available from any beat.

Athletic Department Information

“Over half of all Menlo students compete in varsity sport.”

Mission and Vision

Institutional authority. This handbook supports Menlo College policies, NCAA rules, the Athletics Operations Manual, the Compliance Manual, the Student-Athlete Handbook, and the Athletic Scholarship Agreement. Where anything here conflicts with those documents, College policies and NCAA rules apply.

ATHLETICS MISSION

The Department of Athletics strives to complement the Menlo College experience by developing future leaders through its intercollegiate athletics program.

COLLEGE MISSION

At Menlo College, we ignite potential and educate students to make meaningful contributions in the innovation economy.

ATHLETICS VISION

The department maintains quality programs and a talented, driven coaching staff that recruits student-athletes with leadership skills, strong character, a commitment to academics and a high level of athletic skill. It seeks to be a source of pride for the College and the surrounding community while competing at the highest level, and is committed to an equitable, supportive and diverse environment that teaches student-athletes to compete with integrity and sportsmanship, act responsibly, and take on leadership roles on their teams, in the classroom, on campus and in the community.

COLLEGE VISION

To redefine undergraduate business education to be dynamically adaptive, innovative and relevant, so students can recognize opportunities and apply 21st-century skills to make a positive impact on the world.

LEARNING COMMUNITY

Over 50% of all Menlo students participate in varsity sport. Athletics, academics and student life are linked in one learning environment — sport is often the best way to teach vital life skills.
